Professional Bio

I am a highly qualified administrative professional with a demonstrated commitment to equity, inclusion, and justice. My top strengths include individualization, conflict resolution, and process improvement. At UW, I have worked in the Chair's offices in Depts. of Medicine, Microbiology, and Surgery and have served on the SoM Staff Mentorship Committee. My roles have included executive support, program development, project management, committee staffing, and academic affairs management. I love learning about the complexity of UW Medicine and seeing how all the parts fit together internally to make a huge impact locally and globally. Prior to UW, I was a self-employed jazz pianist, bandleader, and music educator in New York City for eight years. My musical career provided a strong foundation for many of the skills I use in academic medicine administration today.
